

Barnsley's booming rock scene — and there's more to come

PARTY Day — King George gig.

Party Day in action again

PARTY DAY break what seems like the silence of ages with a gig at the King George, Peel Street, tonight (Friday).

But they haven't been idle and some time soon we shall have a third Party Day album. So far untitled, there are ten songs on the LP, and the band are currently negotiating independent release and distribution, with expected release within six weeks.

Guitarist Paul Nash says it's brilliant and describes it as "the best Thrash since the Pistols." The new material will dominate tonight's gig, which Paul adds is going to be "a 90mph set."

Appearing with Party Day tonight are Anomaly Cacophony so get out and support two good Barnsley bands. And get to the King George early because this gig will fill up fast.